2E Learners are a unique group of learners who are often overlooked in the school system. This presentation will address the unique learning needs of these students and outline how schools and parents can support them, through current research findings and case studies. The seminar is appropriate for classroom and learning support teachers both primary and secondary, parents and professionals, and will address a range of interventions for 2E children with ADHD, ASD, Tourettes Syndrome, Dyslexia, processing issues and other difficulties. The seminar will provide opportunities to workshop and interact with others interested in this issue. Dr Ruth Phillips is a highly experienced consultant, trainer, educator and coach, with qualifications in psychology and over 20 years of teaching expertise. Her particular interest and expertise in meeting the needs of different learners has led to many national and international presentations.
